PETTY THIEVES BUSY THROUGHOUT THE CITY

Pockets Picked and Property Taken From Houses-Many Doors Unlocked.

Central office detectives have be busy during the past few days ferretfing out a number of petty thefts reported in various sections of the city. All of the thefts were evidently the work of amateurs, and in every instance proper precaution against loss had not been taken by the owners o the missing property.

A thief taking advantage of an latched door, entered the home of Mrs. Hannon, 624 New York avenue northwest, last Wednesdar, and stole a ring set with turquoises, valued at $50.

Raymond Acton, of 318 King street, Alexandria, Va., reports that while in the city three nights ago, some on picked his pocket of a gold watch val ued at $85.

Seventy-five feet of copper wire and a babbit metal sleeve are reported to have been stolen from the power house of the Potomac Electric Power Commany Wednesday night.

H. S. Brown left his office, 318 Bond building, two days ago, and failed to lock the door. When he returned, he found that his overcoat, valued at $35. I. J. Wilson of 1320 Second street morthwest reported the disappearance from his room during his absence yesterday of a pair of gold cuff buttons Charles Perkins, 125 W street northwest, has reported the disappearance of a small diamond ring from his apartment. He says he forgot to lock th door when he went to work. Thieves, believed by the police have been boys, broke into the store of G. L. Bailey, 237 G street northwest, on Thursday morning, and stole 60 cents several boxes of Turkish cigarettes. A bicycle belonging to Shannon Luchs, valued at $25, is reported to have stolen from the street where it was left on Wednesday.

WATERWAY FROM GULF TO LAKES PROPOSED

Representative Lorimer Chosen President of Association to Push Canal Interests Before Congress.

Representative William R. Lorimer of Chicago has been chosen president of the Gulf-Lakes Deep Waterways Association, which has been formed by Western men in Washington, for the purpose of promoting interest in the construction of a deep canal between the Mississippi and Lake Michigan, and the improvement and deepening of the Mississippi, so that it may be possible to send vessels of large draft from the lakes to the gulf.

The mississippi and Lake Michigan, and the improvement and deepening of the Mississippi, so that it may be possible to send vessels of large draft from the lakes to the gulf.

The projectors of the movement pro pose to organize sentiment in the twenty-two States bordering on the lakes or the Mississippi. These States, they say, contain about half the members of Congress, and produce more than half the agricultural and manufactured goods of the country. The demand is that as the country is expending constantly great sums for waterway improvements and for the Panama Canal, the most useful project that could possibly be suggested in this direction ought to be forced upon the aftention of Control of the contro story be suggested in this direction ought to be forced upon the aftention of Congress. It is expected that the chief opposition will come from the railroads. No effort will be made to accomplish anything in Congress this session, but in November a convention will be held in anything in Congress this session, but in St. Louis, at which to crystallize and organize the movement, and prepare for a determined campaign in Congress.

COLLAR BUTTON JAG

GOT MAN IN TROUBLE

NEW YORK, March 23.—A collar button "jag" was brought to light in the Bayonne (N. J.) police court, when John Reynolds, of Avenue C was charged by his wife, Jennie, with being drunk and raising ructions at home.

"I was not drunk." Reynolds said to

"I was not drunk," Reynolds said to Recorder Lazarus. "I had tasted nothing stronger than coffee. I dropped my collar button and it rolled under the dresser. I searched for it so long that I became dizzy, and may have acted strangely. That was all."

Reynolds was discharged. "I have been through that lost collar button act, and it's enough to make any man act queerly." the court said.
